

Jen Sackley was born in Cairns North Queensland she is a fifth-generation local woman, a mother and grandmother, with strong family and community ties to the seat of Leichhardt.

JEN SACKLEY UNITED AUSTRALIA PARTY CANDIDATE FOR LEICHHARDT

Throughout the last nine months she has had the privilege of exercising the role of North Queensland Secretary of the United Australia Party which has seen her travel extensively across the electorate, engaging with the general public on their community issues. Jen has a strong academic background reflecting interest in Social, Behavioral and Political Science's with a Master's in Social Work, underpinned with the ability to plan, prioritise effectively, and work to stringent deadlines under pressure without compromising quality of service for the people.

Along with being a long time Justice of The Peace, Jen is passionate about social and economic development; this passion underpins her commitment and belief that as the Federal representative for the people of Leichhardt she has an obligation to support equitable opportunities that can deliver growth for the future.

Until recently Jen has worked in both government departments and private enterprise, where she has held positions which have encouraged her to bring to the table her political savviness, either as an investigator, auditor, behavioral consultant, real estate licensee, and on many occasions, this coupled with an ability to understand the basics of our Australian legal framework she suggests has stood her in good stead.

Jen recognises there are many challenging issues facing the people of Leichhardt, she raises our awareness that Leichhardt is like no other electorate in the nation and noted concerns around the blatant lack of representation and Political Will in recent times to achieve the necessary Social and Economic Infrastructure, imperative for successful sustainable growth in any community by both Labor and the liberal parties while in power.
